HiCi Ltd - EU Food Export Analysis Dashboard

Insights from the analysis reveal that Norway reports the highest number of food rejections in the EU, while the specific food product with the highest count of rejections and actions taken against food exports require further analysis. Additionally, food products originating from Botswana face the highest frequency of rejections. To overcome these challenges, HiCi Ltd should prioritise compliance with Norwegian food safety regulations, improve the quality and compliance of the highest-risk food product, strengthen partnerships in Botswana, take proactive measures based on common actions taken against food exports, and tailor strategies by analysing reported food export origins.
